PRISONS AT DARTMOOR.

The strong massive walls which once incarcerated thousands of our enemies, are now literally become a burrow for rabbits! Hundreds of them are to be found in the buildings.

IN consequence of repeated representations to the Hon. Corporation of the Trinity House, the Elder Brethren have determined, in concurrence with the wishes of the maritime and mercantile interests, to erect a light on the Pawle Point, near the Start Head Land.

This Light will be of peculiar advantage to the vessels on the British Channel from the Atlantic, as it will frequently prove the first light or signal of land made after a long voyage.

IN severe Colds, Rheumatism, &c. from which numbers suffer so severely, particularly during the Winter months, a more salutary Remedy cannot be resorted to, or one that has effected more extraordinary Cures than the Genuine Bateman's Pectoral Drops, which may be had of most respectable Medicine Venders either in Town or Country.

Like many other valuable Medicines, however, it is very much counterfeited, which renders it the more necessary for purchasers to be particular in enquiring for "Ducey's Bateman's Drops," which have the words Ducey & Co. in the Stamp, and are the only genuine sort.

THEIR Majesties remain at the Pavilion in the enjoyment of their usual health.

THE Morning Herald has earned a strong title to the gratitude of all who are interested, (and who is not?) in the progress of affairs in Belgium.

BERCHEM, Head-quarters of Marshal Gerard, Wednesday night, Eleven o'clock, Dec. 12.

There was not much firing last night. The greater part of to-day the Dutch have been annoying the Fort Montebello and battery No. 1, from a battery on the right flank of the Bastion de Toledo.

There has been a great deal said about undermining the Fort St. Laurent, and one of our morning papers tells us that the miners are within seven metres from the fort itself.

In the course of to-day two new batteries of mortars have been placed in the second parallel, and they commence playing about one o'clock.

The trenches already cut occupy a space of nearly 12,000 meters—rather more than two and a half leagues. They are named according to the direction they bear towards the citadel—such as Berchem Trench, Welryk Trench, Montebello Trench.

The bombs continue to fall from the French batteries into Antwerp, and, in the course of this morning, several persons were killed, and some seven or eight houses partially destroyed.

The French are sadly out in their calculations about the bursting of bombs, for the greater part continue to either fall in the fosse of the citadel, go into the Scheldt, or burst in the Esplanade.

The French officers are as loud in the praise of the Dutch as their warmest friends could wish. A superior officer told me to-day the defence of Chassé was best calculated to annoy his enemy, and do great havoc among the miners.

I have nothing fresh that is worthy of sending you; the French continue working—slowly, but surely. Every now and then a wounded man is brought from the trenches, and the military are passing and repassing the trenches.

There was very little firing during the night. This morning the battery of mortars C has been playing on the capital of the Lunette St. Laurent.

I am told that, although you cannot perceive the advancement of the French works, they are approaching close to the citadel; and that it is expected that in a few days they will be prepared to attack, in full force, the bastion Toledo.

HALF-PAST TWO.—I give you the following piece of information as I received it:—"It is intended to blow up St. Laurent this night."

A letter from the Brussels correspondent of the Herald which reached London at the same time states that the French have begun to plunder the miserable Belgians. It mentions also, the arrival in Brussels, of a great number of wounded from the French army. The Marshal has published a proclamation to prevent his worthy associates from plundering their friends and allies.

THE result of the elections is far from affording cause of congratulation to the Conservative party. Wherever the Government could occasion the defeat of a Tory candidate by assisting a "destructive," its full influence has been exercised, and every manœuvre of which electioneering tactics are susceptible has been brought into play.

THE news from Antwerp during the last week has been of a highly important character. So far from the French having possessed themselves of the Fort St. Laurent, as was stated by the newspaper mercenaries in the pay of Louis Philippe, they were repulsed from it with great slaughter, and have at length relinquished for the present, all operations against it.

THE ministerials and mill-tyrants, aided by the most profligate newspaper press that ever disgraced any country, have it seems succeeded in defeating M. Sadler at Leeds, in favour of a silly young man, the son of a great mill-owner in that neighbourhood, and Mr. Thomas Babington Macaulay, who possesses no claim under Heaven to the honor of representing that populous district, but that of being the recipient of ministerial favours for "work done and performed" to the tune of nearly 2,000*l.* per annum.

THE London daily papers have just announced what we foretold to our readers some two months ago,—that the priests would return sixty-four members to the new parliament; but they draw an inference from this fact which we should have been slow to discover—that it is therefore necessary that the Tories should unite with the Whigs and support the Government against this "destructive faction."

perilous—will induce the Tories to listen to the foolish and treacherous advice of certain public writers who by urging the argument of the existence of a general danger to property, seek to effect a coalition between the Whigs and Tories. If experience were of any use experience would abundantly show the declension and the subversion of Tory power were both exclusively owing to their adoption of Whig measures under Lord Liverpool and Mr. Canning, and that their ruin was consummated by the Duke of Wellington's Relief Bill.

On the other hand the rejected candidate is a man who has spent the greater part of a laborious life in devising plans for the benefit of his fellow-creatures, and whose exertions in the cause of humanity have obtained for him the approbation of persons of all parties throughout the country; intimately connected with Leeds, and every way able to promote its local and particular interests; esteemed and respected alike by the rich and the poor; and possessing, without the parrot-like pertness of his rival, oratorical talents of the highest order. What the people of Leeds expect to gain by sacrificing such a man as we have described, to the voluble Popinjay they have elected in his stead, we are at a loss to conceive.

It is due to the enterprise of the Proprietors of the Morning Herald and the Standard to acquaint our readers, that we are indebted for our narrative of the events of the war in Belgium to the daily expresses of those journals. In acknowledging our obligation, we cannot refrain from giving expression to our disgust, in which newspaper proprietors, and readers as well as writers of all parties, can hardly fail of participating, at the atrocious conspiracy got up by the people of the Times to deprive the Herald of the services of its Antwerp correspondent, by causing him to be arrested upon the false and odious charge of being a "foreign Jew in the pay of the Orangists."

THE sincerity of the denunciations, in which ministers have lately indulged against the Destructives, has been prettily exemplified throughout the whole of their electioneering manœuvres in town and country. Whenever the interests of a Destructive appeared likely to clash in the slightest degree with those of a ministerial candidate, the most violent outcry has been raised against the party.

In accordance with this principle, his Majesty's government, anxious, if possible, to exclude Sir Richard Vyvyan from the representation of Bristol, gave all the influence they possessed to the candidates of the Political Unions, Messrs. Protheroe and Williams. This consistent exercise of their power, whilst it did not prevent (as it was intended to do) the return of the Conservative member, went nigh to exclude the moderate Whig, Mr. Baillie.

PORTUGAL.—There has been no news of the least importance from Portugal. The entrance of the Douro is still subjected to a strict blockade. A grand sortie of the Pedroites is expected to be attempted under Sir John M. Doyle. Don Miguel is still at Villa Nova. A revolt in Oporto is one of the rumours in circulation, but the report wants confirmation. We confess we regard such a termination of Pedro's miserable and hopeless expedition as highly robbable.

MEMS. ON MEN AND THINGS.

ASTOUNDING LIBERALITY.—The King and Queen of Belgium as we are informed, have been graciously pleased to command that 4,000 florins (about 333s. sterling) should be distributed among the most distressed of the inhabitants of Antwerp.

There is some nice work just being carried out for our talented and business-loving administration, in the Mauritius. Advices from that colony, received on Thursday, state that "affairs there were in a most distressed state, and the governor had in vain required of the inhabitants to return to a sense of civil duty, and to fulfil their private engagements to each other."

INTIMIDATION IN THE BOROUGH OF OLDHAM.—The following is sent us by a known correspondent:—A butcher of the name of John Farrar, living at Shaw, was called upon by Cobbett's canvassers, and was asked, "Is there a vote here for Mr. Cobbett?" The answer was, "No."

The French Journal Le Temps sarcastically says—"The combined fleet, that grand mystification of the Cabinet of London, left the Downs too late, and returned too early. We should not be astonished to hear that the English vessels were gone to be taken into dock at Portsmouth to repair their damages."

The accounts in the Belgian papers furnish us a very pretty exposé made in the Chamber of Deputies, on Wednesday last. M. Coggan, ex-Minister of Finance, stated some time since that the bank was indebted to the government.

Letters from Madrid authoritatively assert that the British Cabinet has addressed a diplomatic note to all the Courts of Europe, to apprise them that, in consequence of the present state of Portugal, and the interest of her commerce, England considers herself called upon to take an active part in the establishment of Donna Maria II. of Braganza as legitimate Queen of Portugal and the Algarves.

There is no character that "wondering nations" delight so much in as that of a hero. In the present day these meteors are so scarce,—Wellington, Hill, Murray, and the rest being unworthy of remembrance,—that the advent of one will naturally be hailed with rapturous exultation and delight.

SIGNS OF PEACE.—A general order has been issued to every regiment in the French service to prepare to take the field at a moment's notice, and there is a rumoured intention of forming an "army of the Alps."

The following is an extract of a letter addressed by Mr. Steele to the electors of Clare.—Catholic electors of Clare!—May the anathema of your long persecuted, and still persecuted holy church—and may the malediction of the Lord God Almighty scorch the soul of any recreant Judas Iscariot traitor among you who, for the vile lucre of a base bribe, shall betray his country and his religion!

In consequence of the death of Mr. Hyde Villiers, Secretary of the Board of Control, Earl Grey has offered that important post to Mr. Macaulay, by whom it has been accepted.—Leeds Mercury. [The editor of this ministerial hack might have spared himself the trouble of stating that the proffered secretaryship had been accepted. Offer a Whigling any thing in the shape of place, power, or pelf, and catch him refusing if you can. Such "great stomachs" have room for any thing.]

It is intended in future that field officers of marines shall be attached to each of the principal foreign commands. One will proceed in the Vernon to the American station. Major Woolrige is to join the Melville in the East Indies; another will be sent to the Mediterranean, and a fourth will join the Spartiate for the South American station.

The Court party in Paris still insist that general tranquility is not likely to be compromised by the Belgic affair, threatening though it looks; but the activity displayed in every bureau of the War-office, and every branch of the military service, strongly contradict that assumption.

Mr. Stratford Canning has been suddenly sent off to Madrid, charged it is said, with powers to conclude a treaty with the Ministers of France and Spain for the immediate recognition of Donna Maria as Queen of Portugal.

ELECTION RIOTS.

We present our readers with the following commentary on the much-vaunted beneficial effects of Lord Grey's Reform Bill. It is a distressing narrative:—

BOLTON, DEC. 12.—There was some rioting here to-day, and the military were called out; no lives, we understand, were lost.

PRESTON, DEC. 12.—There has been a good deal of excitement and rioting to-day. One man was killed in the disturbance.

DOVER, DEC. 12.—SECOND DAY.—The polling having dragged on very heavily the whole day, and about two hours before the time appointed by law for its final close, a very serious disturbance took place, the mob having, in a body, broken in upon the hustings, with the view of gaining forcible possession of the poll-books from the clerks.

NONWICH.—A letter dated Monday night, states that there was considerable rioting at that place, where a multitude consisting of the members of the Political Union, which had recently joined the colours of Gurney and Ker, made a rush on the booths of Stormont and Scarlett, and in a few minutes demolished them, and afterwards burned the wreck in a bonfire in the Market-place.

WEYMOUTH.—On Tuesday, in the Mayor's Court, James Reed appeared to answer to the charge of an assault against T. F. Buxton, Esq. It appeared by the evidence of complainant, that as he was passing along St. Thomas-street, on Monday afternoon, Reed came towards him from among a number of his associates, and momentarily placed his leg in such a position across the path of Mr. Buxton as to nearly trip him up.

COVENTRY, DEC. 10.—This city has just been the scene of the most disgraceful outrage the oldest inhabitant ever remembers. This was the day appointed for the election; the candidates were Messrs. Elice and Bulwer, against Messrs. Fyler and Thomas, all of them reformers, the latter more moderate than the former.

DISGRACEFUL ELECTION OUTRAGES.—The cowardly mob assembled in front of Mr. Cordy's private house in St. George's Place, on Tuesday afternoon, about half-past three with Mr. Wigney's band and colours. Mrs. Cordy went to the window, when one of the villains hurled a large stone at her, which of course went through the window and occasioned her great alarm.

HULL.—The Hull Packet of Tuesday, in describing the opening of this election, says, "The Sheriff and his attendants proceeded to the hustings by way of Whitefriar-gate, Parliament-street, the Old Dock side, and Lowgate. On passing the Dock side we regret to state a most disgraceful scene occurred. A party of ruffians, instigated, it would appear, by their own evil propensities—for it cannot be believed that the friends of any of the candidates could have given sanction to such an outrage—rushed upon the procession, and having singled out Mr. Hill, one of the candidates, assaulted him violently, and ill-treated him to such an extent that he was unable to attend to his duties for the remainder of the day."

LEEDS.—election commenced on Monday. The most interesting incident of the day was the "Battle of the Standard." The Ten-hour Bill party, the Whites, having consistently and honourably joined in support of the man who had done so much to prove his devotion to the cause of the poor, carried in the procession a banner containing the representation of Mr. Marshall's factory, time five in the morning—a snow storm. When Mr. Marshall began to propose Mr. Macaulay this offending banner was made an object of attack.

WALSALL, DEC. 12.—Last evening, about ten o'clock, a most desperate and outrageous attack was made upon the George Inn, where Mr. Forster's committee and about 300 of his voters were assembled. The windows, doors, &c. were demolished, and but for the spirited resistance made by the gentlemen within, the house would have been plundered, and probably the lives of the inmates sacrificed, so ferocious was the conduct of the mob.

DISURBANCES AT WARWICK.—Warwick has for some time presented a scene of considerable disturbance, the partisans of the various candidates exhibiting the greatest rancour toward each other, whenever, in their canvassing progress through the town, they came into collision.

HERTFORD.—Monday was appointed for the nomination. At an early hour all was bustle and activity. In the morning a large body of men, strangers to the place, mostly from Ware, presented themselves, bearing an intimation of their wishes for reform in their hats, "Duncombe and Spalding."

At an early hour all was bustle and activity. In the morning a large body of men, strangers to the place, mostly from Ware, presented themselves, bearing an intimation of their wishes for reform in their hats, "Duncombe and Spalding."

COLCHESTER.—The election for this borough closed on Wednesday. In the early part of the day bills were posted on the hustings that they were not to be destroyed; but at five o'clock a great number of persons collected, and they began to demolish them.

OXFORD, DEC. 12.—A correspondent says,—"In consequence of certain symptoms of defection among those classes most susceptible of ***. Sir Charles Wetherell deemed it due to himself and his supporters to resign last night; and the scene that followed this morning beggars all description. We dare not state the sum said to be given by either party for individual votes, but this we may say, that a better satire on the freedom of election and the purity of the electors was never witnessed."

WOLVERHAMPTON.—Several disgraceful outrages were committed against Mr. Whitmore's (conservative) friends, who were on their way to meet that gentleman at the Swan, Compton; the flags were torn, the instruments broken, and sharp flint stones and mud thrown, by which several severe wounds and contusions were given.

FAITHFUL SERVICE.—A head-stone has been recently erected in the church-yard of Bishop's Lydeard with the following inscription:—"Sacred to the memory of John Pike, fifty years a servant (to the family of Sir Thomas Buckler Lethbridge, Bart.) at Sandhill Park, aged 58 years."

A GOOD START FOR THE ELECTION.—T. B. Macaulay, Esq. the popular candidate, according to the Whig oracle, at Leeds, was burnt in effigy on Saturday the 8th inst. in the presence of about 10,000 people. An amusing allegorical variation was managed upon this occasion, by causing a skyrocket to ascend from the mouth of the hon. secretary of the Board of Control, early in the conflagration.

THE ALLOTMENT SYSTEM.—The benefits of the allotment system are not confined to the estates of Mr. Throckmorton, in the parish of Molland only; they prevail also in the parish of Martinhoe, in this county; and in Sampford Brett, in the county of Somerset, in each of which parishes he is the proprietor of by far the greatest part of the lands.

PROVIDENTIAL CIRCUMSTANCE.—It will be in the recollection of our readers, that in the course of last summer a great many fishing boats in Shetland, with their crews, were supposed to have perished in a tremendous gale. It would appear, however, that one of these boats had been picked up during the storm by a vessel on its way to America, and the whole boat's crew, except the skipper, who was crushed to pieces by the collision of the ship and boat, were hauled on board by fixing ropes round their waists.

ATROCIOUS MURDER.—In our last, we mentioned the fact of an atrocious murder having been committed on Wednesday, the 5th inst. in the neighbourhood of Farsley, a manufacturing village, about six miles from Leeds. Since then we have ascertained the full particulars, from which it appears that a difference had existed for some time between Mr. Abimelech Hainsworth, cloth manufacturer, of Farsley, and his work-people, respecting an advance of wages, and with those demands he had complied, only requiring them to sign an agreement that they were willing to work for him upon these terms; intimating, at the same time, that those who refused to sign this paper would be discharged from his service.

My Lord,— Your sudden and uncalled-for desertion of your numerous supporters in the county of Middlesex has justly excited the indignation of those who looked up to your Lordship as the only gentleman likely to enable them to throw out Mr. Hume from the representation of the county.

I remain, my Lord,

Your obedient servant,

AN ELECTOR OF MIDDLESEX.

[We must say that we agree with our correspondent in his reprobation of Lord Henley, for his premature desertion of his cause; but this sneaking and temporising conduct will hardly surprise some who happen to be better acquainted with his Lordship's real character than the writer of the above letter.

Among the families thrown into deep, but fortunately temporary distress, by the unfounded report of the loss of the Snake sloop of war, was that of Chief Justice Denman, who has a son serving on board her.
